

DR. MCINTYRE, M. P.
BACK FROM OTTAWA

In Health Insurance, Mr. McIntyre also has introduced a bill providing power for the inspection of need grain farms for debts in cities; Hon. Dr. Brodrick's bill amending the Canada Trade Act; and Hon. Mr. Ferguson's bill on mining and the Canadian Mines Tax.

Theander Gaspari

This represents the practical and useful work of Parliament during the present session. But there are half a dozen bills introduced by the opposition which took part in the South African campaign. From the above it will be seen that the session has been a fruitful one.

Other Legislation

Sir Wilfrid Laurier personally introduced two of the most important resolutions which came up for the consideration of the House, those providing for the extension of the provincial boundaries of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Quebec, and for empowering the government to enter into negotiations with the governments of Alberta and British Columbia.

View to bringing about a steady economic summation of the All-Rail Route project, and the bill to give effect to some results of far-reaching importance to the future of the Dominion. With regard to the latter, the legislation which came before the House the Premier also had a vital part in introducing.

Hon. Mr. Fielding also assumed a large share of the ministerial burdens in introducing the bill to amend the Franco-Canadian treaty through the dominions, and the proof of his ability to do this is shown in the new convention a splendid bargain evidenced in the fact that the French government has agreed to let go of the ground that Canada is getting an undue advantage. Mr. Fielding was instrumental in the new insurance bill, the final passing of which is to be over all next month, and in the writing of certain amendments which the evidence taken before the special committee of the House has determined attack at a matter which is of great interest to the people.

Other bills which are not to be placed to the Bank of Canada, providing for the expansion of note circulation during the crop-maturing period, the limitation and the bill extending and amending the laws relating to term of office.

The Civil Service Bill

Hon. Mr. Fisher's most important legislation was the new civil service bill, taking the service out of politics and making it a civil service, and two, providing for appointment and promotions on merit by competitive examination, and the third, reclassifying and reclassifying the service generally.

The bill, as it affects the inside service, will come into effect on September 1, and the outside service will be affected by the time of the proclamation at some later date. The Minister of Agriculture also put through the House a number of important amendments designed to improve the working of the pure food inspection act.

Mr. A. H. Ayleworth bore the brunt of the bill, and the matter is to be repudiated in the House as one of the most unfair and bad policies.

One of the most important bills and its stormy three months' passage through the Commons is to be accounted for. Little more can be said. It was marked chiefly by the determination of the government to assert minority rights in Parliament to the abuse of the rules governing freedom of speech. One of the first acts of the members of the opposition, deadlocked over the bill, and the consequent adjournment of parliament, was the introduction of what civil service and the machinery of government throughout the country were to be used for the adoption of some form of closure. It is generally admitted that the bill will be introduced, and will be applied in the near future in an amendment to the rules of procedure of the house.

The spectacle presented during the session just closed. Among the other important bills introduced was the bill of Justice which bars the prohibition of the use of cigarettes and tobacco by boys under 16 years of age. The liability of railway employees to prosecute under both the railway act and the criminal law in connection with railway accidents, and bills affecting the judiciary act with respect to the trial of offenders in provincial courts in Manitoba, British Columbia, Ontario and Quebec.

Hon. Mr. Graham and Hon. Dr. Pugley also came through the session with their bills, and the former was given the chance of the most important bill of the session, viz., the bill to increase the scope of the Railway Commission by adding three commissioners to the board, and to extend the jurisdiction of the bill, providing for the regulation of rates of railroads under the supervision of the National Transportation Railways Commission.

The bill, in the Government Bay canal, which Dr. Pugley brought down, dealing with the port of the canal, and can be contracted for a cost of about $100,000, provides one of the most important subjects of legislation for an enclosure.

Dr. Pugley has charge of several hundred items in this enclosure, and the pilot bill, though it has in a way which reflected great credit upon the hon. member in his efforts, has not met with the whole support of the minister during his short tenure of office.

The Public Health

Hon. Mr. Templeton's bill respecting the public health, and containing different safeguards to the public against noxious medicines in patent medicine bottles, and preventing the practice of quackery on the market, which has not been analyzed and certified as being safe.

Another bill introduced by him provides for the encouragement of Canadian tobacco culture by revising the excise duties.

The co-operative society bill, introduced by Hon. Mr. Lemieux, was put through the Commons but killed in the Senate.

Among other items on the legislative grits were: Hon. Mr. Lemieux's bill prohibiting importation, etc., of opium and morphine, and a bill for deep drops in cities; Hon. Dr. Brodrick's bill amending the Canada Trade Act; and Hon. Mr. Ferguson's bill on mining and the Canadian Mines Tax.

Conclusion

This represents the practical and useful work of Parliament during the present session. But there are half a dozen bills introduced by the opposition which took part in the South African campaign. From the above it will be seen that the session has been a fruitful one.

CORRESPONDENCE

WHY DO THEY GET IT?

Editor's Bulletin.
Sir.—I read in yesterday's issue of the Edmonton Bulletin that Mr. Whittier of Ontario, and Gouin of Quebec are to be knighted.

The Canadians will be asking why the premier of Ontario and the premier of Quebec should receive the distinction of knighthood, while the premiers of the different provinces of Canada have not.

The people of Alberta will wonder why the Hon. Dr. Rutherford should not be entitled to such a favor. As a man of education and integrity he deserves it higher than any other person in Canada.

A HILLSIDE PARK.

Baker Bullring.
Sir.—I beg to draw the attention of the citizens of Edmonton to a matter which I consider of very general interest. It is my purpose to bring to the city of Edmonton a hillside park by the side of the hill bounded by the city avenue, McDougall street and First street, laid out for a park. It can be bought for a trifling sum in comparison to what it would be worth in the city limits but did not exceed 400 square miles, and much less than this was paid.

The park will be built on the hillside, the country below it being a plateau. The country below it being a plateau.
